

Microbes Defense: Germs Gone Wild

"Microbes Defense: Germs Gone Wild" debuts in App Store and Google Play!

 There is a world that cannot be seen... There are guards you don't know about... ***

Cracow (Poland), 19.02.2016 - AdGames - an independent casual games developer has just launched its latest game Microbes Defense: Germs Gone Wild, which is an original fusion of a tower-defense and an arcade game. The game is set in a micro-world, and its theme is the fight against invading hostile microbes. The task is to stop the germs and defend your territory against further waves.

At the beginning, it seems that the game is a classic tower-defense offering. Germs attack and your task is to resist the waves of opponents. But when inconspicuous germs begin their mass attack, it is clear that fighting them requires not only the strategic setting of defences, but also quick reactions to concentrated microbe attacks. It becomes a real pleasure to crush single germs with your finger or wipe them away with a crystal. Unique defense characters deserve special attention: Private "Ninja", Freezing "Snot", Rocketman "Bazooka", Major "Shield", Crazy "Bomber" - these characters will be loved by players and bring fresh air to tower-defense games.

The game includes:

- six upgradeable defense characters
- 24 exciting levels in three unique locations
- several types of hostile germs, each with different strength and endurance
- leaderboard, where you can compete with your friends
- hordes of germs to fight
- improved mechanics of a tower-defense game with elements of an arcade game, such as crushing germs with your finger

As the authors of the game put it:

"We wanted to give players an opportunity to fight against an unconventional enemy that hasn't got big guns or a zombie's intelligence. The enemy is inconspicuous but works in an organized and thoughtful manner, e.g. attacks the weakest points of player's defense. Annihilating such an opponent requires much more effort, but gives a lot more satisfaction. We chose a game-play based on tower-defense mechanics, which is improved with arcade games elements, such as crushing germs with your finger. Such a combination made the game more interesting, plus it surprises the players with unconventional attacks, which don't exist in similar games. It was confirmed by our testers, who stated that fighting germs has never been so much fun."

/Download/

Download the game from:

App Store - <https://itunes.apple.com/us/app/microbes-defense-germs-gone/id1073061849?mt=8>

Google Play -

<https://play.google.com/store/apps/details?id=com.adgames.microbesdefensegermsgonewild>

Watch the game trailer on <https://www.youtube.com/watch?v=yM-7WgFlj24>

/About the company/

AdGames is an independent casual games developer for mobile platforms. The company specializes in producing advergames and releases its own games for mobile platforms. More information about the game is available on:

<http://mobile.ad-games.com/microbesdefense/>

The logo for AdGames, featuring the word "Ad" in blue and "Games" in green, both in a bold, rounded font with a white outline and a slight shadow effect.